

We celebrated the Summer Solstice by waking up on the water of a small nearby bay. The rattle of rigging woke me in plenty of time to see this misty pink light. Profoundly peaceful, until the 100+ degree weather on shore brought hordes of swimmers and splashers. Thank you beautiful Amphitrite and Poseidon for our clear, cool waters!